INSTRUCTIONS

You may be eligible to receive a discharge of your applicable federal student loans, if the school that you attended, or that your child attended if you are a parent PLUS borrower committed certain misconduct. This is called a “Borrower Defense to Repayment” discharge. The regulations that apply to this kind of situation are the Borrower Defense to Repayment Regulations. You can find them in the Code of Federal Regulations (C.F.R.) at Title 34, Sections 685.400-499.

If you believe that you may qualify for a Borrower Defense to Repayment discharge, you should complete this application. It outlines the types of misconduct by the school that might qualify you for relief. Once you submit this application, the U.S. Department of Education (“ED”) will review your allegations. ED will also ask your school to respond to your claims. ED will then consider your application, any additional evidence you provide, any evidence in our possession, and any response received from your school. ED will notify you when the review is complete and a decision has been made. ED will generally make a decision on your application within three years from the date your application is determined to be materially complete. For more information, please visit the borrower defense website.

ED strongly encourages you to provide as much detail as possible in this application for your relevant claim or claims. That will help ED to better review your application. Everything in the application must be true and complete to the best of your knowledge.

What kind of conduct by the school can lead to an approved application?

1. You may qualify for a Borrower Defense to Repayment if a school or its representatives made untruthful or misleading statements while trying to convince you to enroll or to remain enrolled. You have to show that this information was important to you when you decided whether to enroll or remain enrolled. You also have to show that the misconduct caused you enough harm to justify a full discharge and refund of all applicable federal loans (34 C.F.R. 401(a)). The school’s conduct must relate to untruthful or misleading statements concerning one or more of the following areas:
   - Graduates’ employment outcomes; for example:
     - Guarantees of employment; or
     - Guarantees that you would earn a certain salary.
   - The school’s educational programs; for example:
     - Whether completion of a program qualifies you for a specific license or certification;
     - The number, availability, and qualifications of instructors; or
     - Your ability to transfer credits to another school;
   - The school’s financial charges; for example:
     - The school’s program cost; or
     - The availability or type of financial assistance available to you.

The school or its representatives could have made these untruthful or misleading statements directly to you, or in its marketing materials, websites, or other communications.

2. You may also qualify for Borrower Defense to Repayment if your school concealed, suppressed, or omitted certain information that would have been important to your decision of whether to enroll or remain enrolled, and the concealment caused you harm warranting a full discharge and refund of all applicable federal loans (34 C.F.R. § 685.401(a)). This includes conduct such as:
   - A failure to provide important information about any of the three areas described above (i.e. graduates’ employment outcomes; the school’s educational programs; or the school’s financial charges); or
A failure to tell you that certain factors, like a criminal record or the program not being authorized by the appropriate agency, would prevent you from meeting requirements for employment in the program’s field.

3. You may also qualify for Borrower Defense to Repayment if your school engaged in aggressive and deceptive recruitment tactics to convince you to enroll or to remain enrolled and caused you harm warranting a full discharge and refund of all applicable federal loans (34 C.F.R. § 685.401(a)). This includes conduct such as:

- Demanding or pressuring you to enroll immediately, including by falsely claiming you would lose your opportunity to attend if you did not immediately enroll;
- Taking unreasonable advantage of your lack of knowledge about higher education or financial aid to pressure you to enroll or take out loans;
- Discouraging you prior to enrollment from discussing the decision to enroll with friends, family, or others;
- Using threatening or abusive language; or,
- Repeatedly contacting you if you asked not to be contacted further.

4. In some circumstances, a lawsuit against a school may qualify you for Borrower Defense to Repayment. For the lawsuit to qualify, it must be based on the school’s misconduct related to your decision to enroll or remain enrolled. It must have been brought by you, a government agency, or, if it’s a class action lawsuit, have you included as a class member. In addition, it must have resulted in a favorable judgment (i.e., a judgment against the school and in favor of the plaintiff).

5. Finally, in some circumstances, a school’s failure to perform its obligations under a contract with you (such as in an enrollment agreement) may qualify you for Borrower Defense to Repayment. To qualify, those obligations must have been important to you when you were deciding whether to enroll or remain enrolled and caused you harm warranting a full discharge and refund of all applicable federal loans.

What must be included in the application?

ED can only consider complete applications. To be complete, an application must include at least the following information:

- A description in your own words of the statements, acts, or omissions that you believe qualify you for Borrower Defense relief;
- An explanation of who made the statements, acts, or omissions, or how they were made, and in what context;
- An approximation of when the statements, acts, or omissions happened;
- A description of how the statements, acts, or omissions affected your decision to enroll, to continue attending the school, or to take out the loan(s) related to your attendance at the school; and
- A description of the harm you suffered because of the school’s statements, acts, or omissions.

ED recommends you provide as much as detail as possible in the sections below about the statement, act, or omission that you believe qualifies you for a Borrower Defense to Repayment. Additionally, ED recommends that you include the following documents:

- Documents that support your claim that your school lied to you or misled you, including: any e-mails or other communications between you and your school, course catalogs, student manuals, and any advertisements from your school.
- Documents that support your claim that there was a judgment against your school, including: a copy of the court’s judgment, if available.
- Documents that support your claim that your school breached a contract with you if your claim is based on a breach of contract, including: a copy of the contract itself.
- Documents that show the date(s) of your enrollment and your program of study, including: enrollment agreements, transcripts, and diplomas.

Any other documentation that is related to the reason you are applying for Borrower Defense relief.

By completing this application, you are certifying, under penalty of perjury, that all the information provided is true and complete. This means that you could face criminal prosecution under the U.S. Criminal Code and 20 U.S.C. 1097 if you knowingly submit a false statement on your application.

SECTION 6: FORBEARANCE AND STOPPED COLLECTIONS

You have the option to request forbearance or stopped collections status.

If you are not currently in default on any federal student loan, your loans will be put into forbearance while your application is under review. "Forbearance" means that you do not have to make loan payments and your loans will not go into default while your application for a Borrower Defense discharge is pending with the U.S. Department of Education. Your servicer will notify you when your loans have been placed into forbearance status.

If any of your federal student loans are in default, your loans will be put into stopped collections status while your application is under review. "Stopped collections status" means that the holder of your defaulted loan will not attempt to collect on the defaulted loan(s), including efforts to withhold money from your wages or federal income tax refunds, while your Borrower Defense application is pending with the U.S. Department of Education.

If you have more questions about forbearance or stopped collections, visit StudentAid.gov/borrower-defense or contact your servicer. If you do not know who your servicer is, please visit StudentAid.gov/aid-summary or call 1-800-4-FED-AID.

Interest will continue to accumulate on all federal student loans regardless of their status, including subsidized loans, for the first 180 days after you are granted forbearance or stopped collections status. If your application is pending for more than 180 days, no further interest will accumulate until you are notified of the Department’s determination in your case.

If your application for Borrower Defense is denied, the total amount you owe on those loans may be higher. If you wish to make interest payments while your loans are in a forbearance or stopped collections status, please contact your servicer.

You do not have to place your loans in forbearance or stopped collections to apply for Borrower Defense relief. Instead, you may continue making payments on your loans, especially if you are in a repayment program like loan rehabilitation to... remove your loans from default or are seeking loan forgiveness through a program such as the Public Service Loan Forgiveness or Income-Driven Repayment Forgiveness programs.

You can learn more about repayment options at https://studentaid.gov/manage-loans/repayment/plans, including income driven repayment options at https://studentaid.gov/idr/.

Do you wish to request that your loans not be placed into forbearance, meaning that you will need to continue making student loan payments while your application is being reviewed?

☐ I wish to have my loans placed into forbearance or stopped collection status.

☐ I DO NOT wish to have my loans placed into forbearance or stopped collections.

If you do not select one of the options above and you are not in default on a federal student loan, ED will automatically place your federal student loan(s) into forbearance during our review of the application and the issuance of a decision.

If you do not select one of the options set forth above and you are in default on a loan, ED will place the federal student loan(s) that is (are) the subject of your Borrower Defense application into stopped collection status during our review of the application and the issuance of a decision.

ED will also ask holders of Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) program loans not held by ED to make these same changes.

SECTION 7: CERTIFICATION

By signing this attestation, I certify, under penalty of perjury, that: all of the information that I provided is true and complete.

Any person who knowingly makes a false statement or misrepresentation on this form or on any accompanying document is subject to penalties that may include fines, imprisonment, or both, under the U.S. Criminal Code and 20 U.S.C. 1097. I sign this application under penalty of perjury.

I also agree to the following: to provide to the U.S. Department of Education additional information that is reasonably available to me that will verify the accuracy of my completed attestation and to provide, upon request, testimony, a sworn statement, or other documentation reasonably available to me that demonstrates to the satisfaction of the U.S. Department of Education or its designee that I meet the qualifications for Borrower Defense relief.

I also certify that I received proceeds of a federal loan, in whole or in part, to attend the school/campus identified in Section 2 above.

I also certify that I relied upon the misrepresentations and/or omissions identified in Section 3 above when enrolling at the school, and that the misrepresentations and/or omissions were material to my decision to enroll.

I also certify that I have not received a refund, tuition recovery, settlement, or other financial restitution to repay the loans that are the subject of this Borrower Defense claim, except as otherwise disclosed in my application.

I understand that if my application is approved and some or all of my loans are forgiven, I am assigning to the U.S. Department of Education any legal claim I have against the school for those forgiven loans. By assigning my claims, I am transferring my interest in any claim that I could make against the school relating to the forgiven loans (including the ability to file a lawsuit over those forgiven loans and any money ultimately recovered in compensation for those forgiven loans in court or other legal proceedings) to the U.S. Department of Education. I am not assigning any claims I may have against the school for any other form of relief — including injunctive relief or damages related to private loans, tuition paid out-of-pocket, loans not forgiven by the Department, or other financial losses.

I understand that the U.S. Department of Education has the authority to verify information reported on this application. with other federal or state agencies or other entities. I authorize the U.S. Department of Education, along with its agents and contractors, to contact me regarding this request at the phone number above using automated dialing equipment or artificial or prerecorded voice or text messages.

I understand that any rights and obligations with regard to Borrower Defense are subject to the provisions currently in effect under Title 34 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

I agree to allow the school that is the subject to this Borrower Defense application to provide the Department with items from my student educational record relevant to this Borrower Defense application.

If one or more of the loan(s) that was made for me to attend the school that is the subject of this Borrower Defense application is a federal non-Direct loan and my application is approved for a Borrower Defense discharge, I agree that the U.S. Department of Education will consolidate those loans into a Direct Consolidation Loan to the extent allowed by law and regulation if necessary to effectuate my discharge.

If a Federal Direct Consolidation is needed to effectuate my discharge, I authorize:

A. The U.S. Department of Education to contact the holders of the loans I have selected for consolidation to determine the eligibility for consolidation and the payoff amounts of the loans to be consolidated and discharged;
B. The holders of the loans I want to consolidate to release any information required to consolidate my loans, in accordance with the law, to the U.S. Department of Education or its agents and contractors; and
C. The U.S. Department of Education to pay the full amount I owe to the holders of the loans that I want to consolidate to pay off those loans.

I agree that the U.S. Department of Education and their agents and contractors may contact me regarding my Borrower Defense application or my loan(s) at any cellular telephone number I provide now or in the future using automated dialing equipment or artificial or prerecorded voice or text messages.
